

Telemarketing is not useful in our household, just annoying especially from a company I chose to sever ties with in the first place. If I've left a company and moved on its generally because they did not offer what I needed/wanted in the first place. I've made my choice and have acted within my rights to choose other providers, DO NOT CALL.